

Our Project:

DarMatch is a rental platform designed to help students and individuals find trustworthy housing with confidence. Inspired by platforms like Airbnb and Booking.com, the project focuses on solving one major problem: the gap between online listings and reality.

The core idea is simple — what you see is what you get. All property images are verified to accurately reflect the real space, ensuring transparency and building user trust. The platform provides a seamless experience for both renters and property owners, making the process of searching, comparing, and booking accommodations easier, safer, and more reliable.
